Your pet is here for anesthesia/surgery. We will perform a full physical exam on your pet before administering any anesthesia. However, our clinic recommends preanesthetic blood tests to detect any internal problems which may not be evident physically. Undetected health problems could put your pet at higher risk for complications during anesthesia, surgery and recovery.

We are able to perform these blood tests within our clinic, quickly and accurately before anesthetic induction. Below are the two blood screens available.

Profile B	Profile C
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Activated Clotting Time Albumin (protein) ALT (liver) Creatinine (kidney) Glucose PCV/TP (hydration) Alkaline Phosphatase (liver) - $73.30	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Activated Clotting Time Complete Blood Count Complete Blood Profile - $115.20

Please check the appropriate box and sign below:

POSTOPERATIVE PAIN MANAGEMENT

Like people, animals experience varying degrees of pain following surgery. We can administer an injection for pain immediately following the procedure and prescribe oral medications to be given at home. There is an additional charge depending on the size of your pet. Total approximate cost for cats and small dogs 0 to 25 pounds is $32.70, medium dogs 26 to 50 pounds is $37.30, large dogs 51 pounds and up are $41.70. I would like the additional pain control option: YES ___ NO ___

I understand that anesthesia and surgical procedures may have risks and could be potentially life threatening.
